

Dedicated to chemistry

Established in 1954, DETAX features among the pioneers in the field of silicones. In fact, this is where the enterprise has its basic competence: over the last 50 years the German company has been gaining experience in the manufacture of silicone based materials and other medical devices. The result represents the solid foundation for the high quality standard of the product range. The fascination with the world of chemistry is unbroken. DETAX products are successful because they are based on good ideas and constantly offer a specific product benefit. Today, DETAX ranks with the leading manufacturers of earmould and dental materials and manufactures more than 700 products which are distributed all over the world. The international orientation is reflected by the narrow distribution network available in every part of the world. DETAX products can be purchased in the UK from Puretone Ltd, Rochester, Kent.
